

AUSTRALIAN ARMY

2nd Battalion (Amphibious), the Royal Australian Regiment

Warrant Officer Class One Daniel Nawrocki enlisted in the Army in 1996. Since then, his service has been with the Royal Australian Infantry Corps, with key appointments in joint, coalition and instructional environments.

On completion of his Initial Employment Training, he was posted to the First Battalion, The Royal Australian Regiment. During the next six years he served as a rifleman and section commander. In 2000 and 2003, Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki deployed to East Timor as part of the Battalion commitment to the United Nations on Operation TANAGER and CITADEL. In 2004 he was selected as a tri service recruiter and posted to Defence Force Recruiting – Tasmania. In 2006

Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki posted back to the First Battalion, the Royal Australian Regiment and deployed to the Solomon Islands, as part of Operation ANODE, on his return he was promoted to Sergeant and in 2006, deployed with Delta Company as the Security Task Group, to Afghanistan on Operation SLIPPER.

In 2010 Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki was posted to the Warrant Officer and Non-Commission Officer Academy – North Queensland, as an instructor and course manager. He enjoyed the diversity and autonomy that the All Corps environment provided. On promotion to Warrant Officer Class Two, in 2012, he posted to the School of Infantry, where he held the Sergeant Major position in Leadership Division, managing the Subject Two for Sergeant and Regimental Officers Basic Course. A key achievement during his tenure was developing and implementing new learning management packages for these courses. He also held positions as the Standards Warrant Officer and a company sergeant major at Rifleman Wing, developing guidelines and infrastructure for the integration of female soldiers into the Infantry Corps.

In 2016, Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki was posted to the Second Battalion (Amphibious), the Royal Australian Regiment, he completed Company Sergeant Major appointments with Bravo Company and Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Company. During this time Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki deployed to Rifle Company Butterworth, Exercise Indo Pacific Endeavor 18 and RIMPAC18. In 2019 he was posted to the Directorate of Soldier Career Management – Army, as a career advisor to private and lance corporal ranks. In 2020 he was promoted to Warrant Officer Class One and remained at the Directorate of Soldier Career Management – Army, as career advisor to infantry sergeants.

In 2022, Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki was appointed the Regimental Sergeant Major of the Second Battalion (Amphibious), the Royal Australian Regiment.

Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki's honours and awards include the Infantry Combat Badge, Australian Active Service Medal (East Timor, ICAT Clasp), Australian Service medal (Solomon Island), Australian Defence Long Service Medal and Clasp, Australian Defence Medal, UNMISSET medal (East Timor), Afghanistan Campaign Medal, the NATO Non-Article 5 Medal (ISAF Clasp) and an Army Commendation – Silver and Bronze.

Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki is married to Loretta and has two children Peri and Haris. As a family they enjoying kayaking and bushwalking with travel a particular passion. Warrant Officer Class One Nawrocki remains committed to providing a positive influence to Army and his family.